

Learn about our new journal

Who are we?

We work at universities.

Some of us live and work in the United Kingdom.

Some of us live and work in other countries. People from over 20 countries are part of our team.

We are researchers. This means that we study things in order to understand them better.

We want to tell people what we find out in our research.

What interests us?

This is a list of some of the things that interest us

- The lives of disabled people
- The things that make life difficult for disabled people
- Why disabled people are sometimes treated unfairly
- Disabled people's rights
- How disabled people can be included in society
- Making sure disabled people have equal chances
- Making sure disabled people and their families have good lives

What is a journal?

A journal is like a book. There are different parts of the book.

Each part is written by a different researcher or teams of researchers.

When people read a journal they learn about the work of researchers.

What is the name of our new journal?

Our new journal is called The International Journal of Disability and Social Justice.

What is Social Justice?

Social Justice is about fairness.

It is about everyone being valued and respected.

It is about everyone being included.

It is about everyone receiving the support they need.

It is about everyone's rights being respected.

There can be no discrimination in a just society.

We want there to be social justice for disabled people. We want them to be valued, included and treated fairly. We want their rights to be respected.

What will the new journal be about?

It will tell you about

- Disabled people's lives in different countries.
- Campaigns by disabled people and their organisations.
- How governments are supporting disabled people.
- Unfair or hurtful ways disabled people are sometimes treated.

It will also tell you about

- Research led by disabled people or research that includes disabled people.
- New ideas by people who want to be allies (friends and supporters) of disabled people. They might be lawyers, teachers, social workers or designers.

Will it be easy-read?

There will be a magazine published at the same time as the journal. It will be called The Digest

This will be a version of the journal that is easier for everybody to read.

In the Digest there will sometimes be articles for or by people who have learning disabilities (cognitive impairments). These will be in easy-read.

There will sometimes be articles for or by disabled children and these will be child-friendly.

How will I be able to read this magazine?

You will be able to read it for free on our website.
